

Takashi Uemura is Professor at Department of Advanced Materials Science, Graduate School of Frontier Sciences, The University of Tokyo, Japan. He received his Ph.D. degree at Kyoto University in 2002. He then began his academic career as Assistant Professor (2002) and then Associate Professor (2010). He was promoted to Professor at the University of Tokyo in 2018. In 2006–2010, he was also a researcher of PRESTO programme of Japan Science and Technology Agency (JST). Since 2013, he has been a research director for a CREST programme of JST. His research interest is the preparation of synergistic nanohybrids between coordination compounds and polymeric materials. He has been awarded several prizes, including Young Scholar Lecture Series, CSJ (2008), CSJ Award for Young Chemists (2010), Young Scientists' Prize, Kao Research Initiative Award (2014) and JSPS Prize (2016).